

Rules of conduct

We would like to explain the rules of conduct that have guided us to where we are today, and which have always served as a starting point for our way of doing business. Transparency, ethical management and good practices must be the basis of our activities. All molinze employees are committed to maintaining and displaying an ethical conduct.

GOOD VIBES HIGH TIDES

At molinze we are progress in terms of constructing a solid structure and also the future vision of our company which has resulted in a commitment to sustainable development.

This commitment extends throughout our value chain and our areas of influence and takes the form of a responsible management model based on seeking the creation of shared value with our stakeholder groups.

We want transparency to be the basis of our relationship with our customers, which is why we are explaining our principal goals and actions here.
